Coronado Woman's Club

1956-57 CLUB YEAR

Coronado Women's Club holds introductory meeting

The Coronado Women's Club held its introductory fall meeting yesterday in the Council Room of the Coronado City Hall with Mrs. Charles C. Yanquell presiding. Mrs. Yanquell is president of the club.

Mrs. Paul Russell of La Jolla entertained the group with original monologue-type character sketches. Mrs. Russell, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, continued her studies with graduate work at Northwestern University and has had wide experience in direction and acting in little theater groups.

Mrs. Russell was introduced by Mrs. Frank Deam, program chairman.

New members welcomed into the club were Mmes. Arthur Dewar, William Floyd, Frederick Pennoyer, Stephen Robinson, Gerald Thompson and Kenneth Wallace. Two former members, Mrs. Leo Baker and Mrs. Ben Clark, returned to active membership.

The fall project, a "Good as New" sale, is being planned by the club under the chairmanship of Mrs. Beverly Harrison.

Tea chairman was Miss Marion Meyers. She was assisted by Mmes. George Kenyon, Frederick Stelter, Jr. and Hunter Wood, Jr.

Serving on the tea committee are Mmes. Amos Schaefer, Edward Rogers, Hubert Rose, Harry Perkins, Robert Plumb, David Justice, A. J. C. Forsyth, Herman Hughes and Arthur Seavey.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION
OF

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS:

That we, the undesigned, for the purpose of forming a corporation under Part 1 of Division Two of the Corporation Code of the State of California, also known as the General Non-profit Corporation Law, do certify:

First: That the name of the unincorporated association incorporated is CORONADO WOMAN'S CLUB.

Second: That the purposes for which the corporation is formed are as follows:

(a) To provide a means for the advancement of culture, philanthropy and community interest among the women of the City of Coronado, California.

(b) To cultivate friendship and sociability among the members of the club and to inculcate the principles of charity, justice, love and fidelity and to promote the welfare and enhance the happiness of its members.

(c) To sanction, encourage, sponsor and promote meetings of the members of the CORONADO WOMAN'S CLUB and to do such other acts as may be necessary or incidental to the purpose of the club.

(d) To do and perform generally those things which are necessary and legally permissible to be done by an organized Woman's Club; and particularily to do all things appropriate to acquire and maintain suitable club rooms or a club house or club property.

(e) To receive property by devise or bequest, subject to the laws regulating the transfer of property by will, and otherwise acquire and hold all property, real or personal, including shares of stock, bonds, and securities of other corporations.

(f) To act as trustee under any trust incidental to the principal object of the corporation, and to receive, hold, administer, and expend funds and property subject to such trust.

(g) To convey, exchange, lease, mortgage, encumber, transfer upon trust, or otherwise dispose of all property, real or personal.

(h) To borrow money, contract debts, and issue bonds, notes and debentures, and secure the payment or performance of its obligations.

(i) To make contracts; and to do all other acts necessary or expedient for the administration of the affairs and attainment of the purposes of the corporation.

The sub-paragraphs (a) to (i), both inclusive, of this second paragraph, as hereinabove set forth, shall be construed both as statements of purposes and powers, and the statements contained in each clause of said sub-paragraphs shall not be limited or restricted by reference to or inference from the provisions of any other clause.

Third: That this corporation does not contemplate the distribution of gains, profits, or dividends to the members thereof.

Fourth: That the county in this state where the principal office for the transaction of the business of the corporation is located is San Diego County.

Fifth: (a) That the Board of Directors of

Dear Friends:

May we take this opportunity of thanking the members of the Civic Interest Committee for the very generous supply of cookies they provided for the patients of this hospital recently through the courtesy of Mrs. Talbert.

They were served in our lounge as well as on several bed patient wards where they were thoroughly enjoyed. It certainly was nice of you to send these goodies to this hospital as a little extra treat of this kind is always more than welcome. We have punch on hand for little parties for the patients and a cookie or two is a perfect companion to a cup of punch.

Thank you again for your interest in the welfare of the servicemen hospitalized here.

Cordially,

$40,000 Collected On Heart Sunday

Ten thousand volunteer workers yesterday collected an estimated $40,000 in the first Heart Sunday fund drive ever held in San Diego County.

Officers of the San Diego County Heart Association said the money collected yesterday in a two-hour door-to-door canvass of homes will be added to funds collected previously in an effort to reach the county's goal of $110,000 to be used to fight heart diseases.

The estimate of $40,000 was given by Mrs. Arthur Crom, Heart Sunday chairman, as volunteer tellers counted receipts turned in by 62 area chairman at the North Park Branch of the Bank of America. Mrs. Crom said she expected the counting would continue through most of the night.

"Even before the counting is completed it is evident that the residents of San Diego County have given their whole hearted support to this first Heart Sunday and made it a complete success," Mrs. Crom said.

The 62 area captains of the fund drive worked through 570 district captains who in turn led the 10,000 volunteers. Each volunteer called at from 15 to 20 homes in his neighborhood to solicit funds.

Mrs. Crom and Henry F. Hansen, San Diego County Heart Association president, said that of each dollar collected during this month's drive, 26 cents will support state and San Diego County heart research projects, 13 cents will go to help finance such projects nationally, 30 cents will be used for professional and public heart education and community services here, nine cents for local administration and 22 cents for state and national programs.

WAYS & MEANS

GOOD AS NEW SALE

Coronado Journal
Coronado, California
Page 6 Thurs., Nov. 29, 195

A lesson for all

Do Coronado Journal ads pay?

Dear Madam and Sir, without a single doubt!

For instance:

Two weeks ago the Coronado Women's Club conducted a sale of miscellaneous goods. the receipts going into the club's coffers for the good work the organization does. Thev ran an ad in the Journal and when the sale opened at 9 in the ayem more than 50 citizens were waiting to get in. said Mrs. Beverlev Harrison, who had a large hand in the sale.

Now, the lesson of this should be apparent to all those who have things to sell.

Ways and Means: Nice things at bargain prices equals heaven in any woman's language. The nice things were your generous donations, the sharp merchandising was handled by Mrs. Beverley Harrison's hard-working committee and the heavenly result was a Fall project that made twice as much money as any Fall project has ever made before. When Mrs. Harrison reports to you on the November 10th Good as New Sale, we hope she takes time to tell you a few of the sidelights. Human interest stories to warm your heart.

November 10 date set for 'good-as-new' sale by local Women's Club

A "good-as-new" sale, sponsored by the Coronado Women's Club, will be held November 10 at 1333 Orange avenue beginning at 9 a.m.

Mrs. Beverley Harrison, chairman of the ways and means committee, asks that members take their donations, on hangers with sizes marked, to 452 C avenue.

Proceeds from the sale and from the 1957 calendars, which Mrs. Elwood Tillson will offer to members at the November 7 meeting, will benefit the clubhouse fund.

'Good As New' Sale Is Planned

A "good as new" sale is planned by the Coronado Woman's Club at 9 a.m. Nov. 10 at 1333 Orange Ave.

Mrs. Beverly Harrison, ways and means chairman, says donations are being accepted at 452 C Ave. They should be on hangers, with sizes marked.

Proceeds will be for the clubhouse fund.

ADMIRING A LOVELY cocktail dress, which will be one of the items offered at the Coronado Women's Club "good-as-new" sale, November 10, are three of the "pricing committee." Left, Mmes. Beverley Harrison, Elwood Tillson, and Arthur Chytrus. Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Tillson are co-chairmen for the event; Mrs. Chytrus is a member of the committee, which also includes Mmes. William Schultz, Henry Wray, and Russell Davis.

Women's Club approves fea welfare projects

Ten projects of an ambitious welfare program were approved for the coming year by members of the Coronado Women's Club at the October 3 meeting in the Council Room of the City Hall.

The projects include: Contributions of canned goods and jellies for distribution by the Big Sisters' League; distribution and collection of Christmas Seal boxes; membership in the San Diego Foundation for visually handicapped children; work with the Pacific Beach play school.

Also, work with the Camp Fire Girls; contributions to the Zia Indian children's Christmas Party; contributions to the Nurses Scholarship fund; Red Cross council cooperation at Naval Hospital and assistance in supplying toys for the Home for Homeless Children in San Diego County.

The CWC will sponsor a "Good-as-New" sale November 10 at 1330 Orange avenue. Mrs. Beverley Harrison, chairman, has named as her committee Mrs. Elwood Tillson, co-chairman and Mmes. Robert Baird, Arthur Chytrus, Paul Corriere, Russell Davis, Raymond Farnsworth, Thomas Guinn, Donald Hamilton, David Justice, Frank Kelley, Albert Knox, Burton Kramer, William Schultz, William White, Hunter Wood, Jr., and Henry Wray.

Woman's Club to celebrate tenth anniversary Tuesday

The tenth anniversary celebration of the Coronado Woman's club will be highlighted by the presentation of five - minute sketches by each of the nine sections of the club.

"There is great secrecy in the preparation of the skits," said Mrs. Albert Handly, Jr., in charge of the birthday party, which will be held in the Commissioned Officers' Mess, North Island, Tuesday, March 12, at 1 p.m.

In addition to section sketches, the seven past-presidents of the club will present a skit. The acts will be introduced by a locally well-known actress, Mrs. Arthur Challacombe, who portrays "Mrs. Feeley" in the annual summer offering of the Coronado Players, "Suds In Your Eye."

Mrs. Charles C. Yanquell, president, will be at the head table with directors and founders of the club. The past presidents will occupy another special table, according to Mrs. Karl Smith and Mrs. Alex Spence, in charge of seating. Original placecards are being designed by Mrs. Leslie Cridge and members of the arts and crafts section, of which she is chairman.

The celebration might be termed "a surprise party" as the decor also is being kept a secret by its co-chairmen, Mrs. Nicholas Campanole and Mrs. Lyell Pamperin.

Ticket sales are being handled by Mrs. Russell Davis and Mrs. Paul Corriere. Mrs. Paul Morton is overall section chairman of sections. Her assistant is Mrs. Robert Plumb.

Birthday Party Skit
put on by The Past Presidents written by Mrs. Francis

Gwen- We bring you now for your good pleasure,
In random beat and uneven measure,
An unoriginal play, uncensored, unrehearsed.
We hope you'll stay. Relax. The worst is first.

Our play has eight acts, some gay and some tender.
Some acts have two scenes.
Our cast is all of the feminine gender. — { Presidents rise
Chosen for their brains, it seems. { Gwen looks us over-
{ Aside

Behind the scenes to do their bit
We have the founders, left to right, to wit. — Founders enter on podium

The name- Ten Years with Our By-laws.
The theme-By-laws are like in-laws.
You may love 'em or doubt 'em
But you'd be nowhere without 'em.

(Aside) But I'll admit in all piety,
They've given us some variety.

Gwen- Act 1, scene 1

Francis;
We labored long and tore our hair — Founders snatch at a wig held high
To make our By-laws wise and fair.
And when at last
They were amassed
And duly passed,
We knew we'd hit a new high in creation
When they were accepted by the Federation. — Hold up State Federation seal

All presidents-refrain

Here's to our By-laws.
Long may they last
As they were passed.
Or shall we look for some flaws? — Presidents gleefully search manuscript using any kind of viewing instrument.

Gwen; Act 1, scene 11

Francis-
It's nineteen hundred and forty-eight.
Oh yes, we must incorporate.
Our H. L. Rose,
In deathless prose,
Rewrote them so they would operate
And we could get our punch-seal from the State — Founder dons some item to make look like a judge-mustache, mortar board (?) and hold up our seal

Refrain- Here's to our By-laws.
Now we are set.
How good can you get?
Or shall we look for some flaws? — All search manuscript

We have new problems. The very bitt'rest.
Some members moved across the ways.
But they don't want to be emigrés. — F.s tie on babushkas
They want to stay club protegés.
For those who won't work, we've raised the cost.
But what shall we do when some won't'get lost'?

Refrain;

Here's to our By-laws.
I think we should consider 'em.
Let's keep 'em if we can't get rid o' them.
Let's correct those flaws. — All write in manuscript with assorted odd instruments

I saw no need to let our halyards slip.
Since we had that committee
And they were bright and witty,
We decided to batten things down a bit.
To make our craft a ship-shape outfit. — F's hold up toy boat

Why we rechecked our portfolio.
Things just weren't hitting on all eight.
We had a ping when we'd accelerate.
When we put her in for some repairs.
We just eliminated all our spares.

IN THE FRENCH MANNER

(Edith Randall)

We studied the Louis', Quinze and Seize,
And French Provincial too,
With any décor that is French
We know just what to do.
We spent our time concocting rhyme
To give what Louis Seize to you,
Happy! Birthday!

IN THE MODERN MANNER

(Evelyn Traynor)

Now we come to plate glass walls,
As on we race, tradition falls.
Cast old décor to the breezes
For modern drapes with modern friezes.
Say good-bye to Orientals
Antique chairs and incidentals,
Twisted statues, modern art,
Crazy pictures all impart
That air of"freedom from the past",
We just wonder--will these last?

Happy Birthday!

By all the means you can,
In all the ways you can,
At all the times you can,
That the club may prosper

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE LAST TEN YEARS

Ten years ago, this very year, some ladies got together
And over coffee they discussed a club -- along with weather --
And by the time the meeting ended, at least, so I've been told,
The Woman's Club was founded -- the die was cast -- in gold!
Our Margarete Francis was the one to instigate the plan
And with her were nine more, each one important - to the man!
There was Lil Anderson, Betty, too, Maxine and Helen Latham,
Ruth Bradt, Dot Rush, Italy Duncan - (Its even hard to say them!)
Thera Wicarius was also in the ten so add her name to those
And last but not at all the least was Mary Edna Rose.
Things got rolling in full swing and fun was had by all
Remember the White Elephants they sold one day that fall?
The garden parties we have had? The birthday luncheons, too?
Box Supper at the Davis'? The Zia Indians -- Whew!
The planting of the Christmas Tree? The Christmas Tea this year?
My Goodness, there're too many things to list them all, I fear!
Remember Mrs. Feeley at our Birthday Luncheon - five?
And all the pies and cakes we've baked to sell -- oh, man alive!
The Good-As-New Sale just this year? The cooking schools and such?
The meetings on the by-lays which were almost too much?
The time we made the purchase of the lot - that was the day!
Then the day we finally sold it -- and the rent along the way?
The fun, the work, the arguments? The pickles in the middle?
We've had a more exciting time than hot cakes on a griddle!
So on this very Special Day - the day we're ten years old
It seems to be appropriate, if we may be so bold,
To wish US Happy Birthday - and to propose a toast
To the ten gals who dreamed this up -- to us you are the MOST!

PROGRAMS GIVEN BY THE MUSIC SECTION FOR THE YEAR 1956-1957

For the September Meeting a representative from the Bell Telephone Company showed a very interesting film entitled "Music in Motion".

At the October Meeting three members, Mrs. Deewall, Mrs. Campanole and Mrs. Dornbach entertained the group by telling of their experiences in Europe,during the summer, attending the various Music Festivals and Operas.

The theme for December was Classical, Romantic and Modern music. Selections relating to each group were given through recordings, the Music Section Chorus and piano and violin.

A program of Folk Songs, French, Irish and Ojibway Indian songs was enjoyed in January.

Piano selections were given by various members from the works of Edward McDowell, 1957 being the hundredth anniversary of the composer's birth, for the February Meeting.

The program for March was a varied one consisting of piano and violin solos and songs by the Section Chorus.

A two-piano program by the members was given in April.

At the last Meeting, held in May, Mrs. Carl Pruett, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Orion Nobles, was the soloist for the afternoon.

Twelve Get First Nursing Degrees

Twelve young women today hold the first bachelor of science degrees in nursing awarded by San Diego State in exercises held Friday.

They are members of the first class to complete the four-year program which gives students a taste of college life and at the same time introduces them to clinical work in local hospitals.

With their degrees they are eligible to take the state examination for registered nurses.

Graduates are the Misses Rita Allen, Adrienne Baumbaugh, Dawn Benson, Leonora Bruhlmeier, Bonnie Green, Pauline O'Connor, Joann Shanks and Mmes. Phyllis Lounsbury Clements, Marjorie Olson Magee, Luan Boynton Schirmer, Janet Hines Schwend and Gloria Maynard.

Miss Neva E. Nye is program director.

How do the graduates feel about four years of music or geology at college in the morning and work at one of five co-operating hospitals or agencies in the afternoon?

They're for it 100 per cent. Miss Baumbaugh and Mrs. Maynard (both graduated with honors) expressed their approval in an interview.

"We could take plenty of electives such as art, literature, music or geology," Miss Baumbaugh pointed out. "One member of our class took part in the college operetta."

"I think the program makes for well-rounded, well-educated women who will make better nurses," was Mrs. Maynard's opinion.

"It's fun to get out of class and drive to Vista Hilll Sanitarium, Chula Vista, for work in the afternoon. I like the variety."

The program utilizes laboratories of the County Hospital, Childrens' Hospital, and Vista Hill Sanitarium for mental patients, and works with the Department of Public Health and Visiting Nurses Association.

Students take training in psychiatrics, tuberculosis, pediatrics, obstetrics, and orthopedics, and do hospital floor work.

In addition, they learn the history of nursing, are introduced to communicable disease treatments, and learn about professional relationships.

Coronado Board Denies Request By Womans Club for Zone Change

CORONADO — A zone variance request by the Coronado Women's Club has been denied by the Board of Zoning Adjustment.

The board denied the reque: Friday at a public hearing i the City Hall.

Ask R1 Change

The Women's Club had asked the variance in an R-1 (residential) zone to allow them to purchase a home there for clubhouse use.

Robert Staunton, planning commissioner, said the variance was denied because the club representative could not furnish the board with specific uses of the clubhouse.

Staunton said certain limitations of use must be provided before a zone variance can be allowed.

A petition against the proposal also had been filed by surrounding property owners.

The board can reopen proceedings within five days on new evidence, Staunton said.

R. E. Archibald, spokesman for the club, said today that the women's club can appeal the board's decision to the City Council.

He said he did not know if this action would be taken by the club.

which Coro- s, was proposed so the club could purchase a house to turn into a clubhouse.

Neighborhood residents, who opposed this request almost unanimously, were represented by Attorney Eugene Horton and R. E. Archibald spoke for the Woman's club.

Commodore C. C. Baughman was pleased with the way the meeting was conducted and stated that it was well organized t he is to the if the a dangerous precedent would be set and it would be done solely on the worthwhile purpose and not on the fact that it is a hardship to any of the area residents.

If the zone variance were approved it could be done again and again and the residential area would cease to be, stated Horton.

The board asked the club if they would accept any limitations on the oning. The club refused.

Many of these present at the meeting felt that if the club had accepted some limitations their chances of gaining approval for the variance might have improved.

Members of the zoning board who were present and acted in this decision were Commodore C. C. Baughman, chairman; Mrs. Richard Stern, Capt. C. C. Ritter, Ware Marshall and Brig. Gen. W. C. Lemly, USMC, ret.

New hearing date set for March 8 on clubwomen, residents conflict

The oral conflict of opinion between the Woman's Club of Coronado and the residents of the 400 block of A avenue, already scheduled twice, has been put off until Friday, March 8, when the zone variance application form should be fully completed by the Woman's Club.

The form which was submitted to Building Inspector Bob Staunton was to be brought before the Board of Zoning Adjustment for consideration and hearing but required signatures of adjacent property owners or statement of why there are no signatures did not accompany the application.

The Woman's Club seeks to buy the property at 475 A avenue, a corner now owned by Rear Adm. Ralph W. Pope, USN, ret. The property would be used for a club house and the club now holds an option pending approval of a zone variance.

Sixty residents of the neighborhood have signed a protest against the zone variance and Attorney Eugene Horton will represent them in the battle.

The full zoning board consisting of Commodore C. C. Baughman, chairman, Mrs. Richard Stern, Capt. C. C. Ritter, Ware Marshall and Brig. Gen. W. C. Lemly, USMC, ret., will meet on March 8 for this hearing.

The Coronado Woman's Club was unanimously denied a requested zone variance at 475 A avenue by the Board of Zoning Adjustment at a public hearing held at city hall last Friday night.

Christmas tea planneed by Woman's Club

"You are cordially invited to steal," says Mrs. Mark Vilim, "any of our ideas." She was speaking to members of the Coronado Woman's Club as she invited them to a tea sponsored by the Garden section of the club. She is section chairman.

The homes of Mrs. Vilim, at 1228 Churchill place, and of Mrs. George Whitney, at 1224 Churchill, will be the setting for tea which will feature Christmas decorations made by the section as it commemorates the tenth year since its establishment.

Guests are expected for tea from 3 to 5 p.m. next Thursday. Among the exhibits prepared for them are Christmas table settings, punch table settings and mantelpiece decorations.

Clothing, toys to be collected by Woman's Club

Clothing and toys will be collected by members of the Coronado Woman's Club for the children of the Zia Indian Pueblo of New Mexico, according to Mrs. Walter W. Crosby, chairman of welfare for the club.

"The 42 children of the Pueblo would have no Christmas at all were it not for the club," according to Mrs. Crosby. "There have been 7 years of drought and in addition, a plague of grasshoppers, so the people are very poor."

A large box will be placed under a Christmas tree in the parish hall of Christ Episcopal Church at the 1:30 p.m. meeting Wednesday for contributions by members. Anyone wishing to donate toys, clothing or money may contact Mrs. Crosby at the El Cordova Hotel, HE 5-4131.

Mrs. Crosby will be assisted by her committee, Mmes. Ennals Waggaman, Lawrence Chamberlin, Luther Kennett, William W. White, Robert Baird, Alec Spence and Samuel Mann.

CALL TO ORDER

Clubdom Going 'A

By KATHRYN STEFFAN
The San Diego Union's Club Editor

It's almost incredible to watch where and to what length organized women are extending their Christmas cheer this year.

As reports pour in from project spokesmen, it's apparent that the true spirit of the season—concern for their fellowman—has captured the heart and hand of clubdom.

Miss Steffan

Clubwomen are answering needs of adults and children alike, from reservation Indians in the back country and orphans in Tijuana to families in their own block.

Their interests are going much farther than filling the yule stockings of children or pots on the kitchen stove in homes where misfortune has become a roomer.

Yesterday's mail, for example, brought a sample of diversification in welfare activities under way this month by a wide cross section of groups.

Ruth Robinson, president of Epsilon Chapter, Theta Alpha Delta, sent word that her sorority for women in business education is furnishing educational toys for children at the Child Development Center for mentally retarded youngsters.

They'll combine their own club social for the season with wrapping the toys when they meet Dec. 14 in the home of Mrs. Jane Van Benthuysen.

The Thursday Club's traditional Christmas cheering of patients at Edgemoor Farm is being directed by Mrs. Charles Rees this year.

Acting as "Mrs. Santa Claus," she asked each patient to make a list of what he or she desired for Christmas. Then she distributed the lists to members of the club.

The gifts will be taken to the farm Dec. 13 when the club assembles there for a community sing, program and refreshments.

Then, there's the report from Mrs. Walter W. Crosby, who says the Coronado Woman's Club is sending a huge box of clothing and toys to 42 children in the Zia Indians in New Mexico.

AIDES NAMED

"The Pueblo is poor beyond words," says Mrs. Crosby, who frequently travels in that area. "There have been seven years of drought and recently a plague of grasshoppers. The children would have no Christmas at all if it were not for the club's generosity.

Mrs. Crosby and her committee will collect contributions at a meeting today in the parish house of Christ Church. Aides include Mmes. Ennals Waggaman, Lawrence Chamberlain, Luther Kennett, W. W. White, Robert Baird, Alec Spence and Samuel Mann.

OTHER PROJECTS

The Medical Auxiliary earmarked $125 in its annual budget for the purchase of toys for children awaiting adoption in foster homes. Mrs. Edwin L. Glazener, welfare chairman, appointed Mrs. Charles Pruett

Woman's Club help in Christmas seal sale

Under the direction of Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman, vice chairman of the welfare committee, members of the Coronado Woman's Club this week will begin distribution of Christmas Seal self-seller coin banks to retail establishments throughout the community.

With the 1956 Christmas Seal drive three weeks old, returns have topped the $50,000 mark, according to Mrs. Bruce R. Hazard, Seal sale chairman.

Mrs. Hazard said that 90 percent of the Christmas Seal sale is conducted by direct mail and that the self-sellers are distributed to offer the seals to those who do not receive them in the mail and to those who need extra seals.

Coronado Clubwomen To Open Year

Coronado Woman's Club will open its season with a meeting at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the council room of Coronado City Hall, Mrs. Charles C. Yanquell presiding.

The program will feature monologue character sketches by Mrs. Paul Russell, La Jolla, who has directed and acted in little theater groups.

Miss Charlotte Edwards and Miss Lucille Gates Carr will entertain members of the Coronado Woman's Club Wednesday at the group's regular monthly meeting in the parish hall of Christ Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Charles C. Yanquell, president, will open the 1:30 p.m. meeting. Mrs. Frank Deam, program chairman, will introduce the special guest artists.

Miss Edwards is the author of a novel, "The Right Place for Love" and has published stories in magazines, appeared in and directed stage productions in the east and presented her own daily radio program.

Miss Carr received her master's degree in music from Claremont Graduate school, under the direction of pianist and composer Lee Pattison of Scripps College.

Coronado Offers Clubhouse Help

By KATHRYN STEFFAN
The San Diego Union's Club Editor

Everything comes to him who waits, the old cliche goes, and it looks like Coronado Woman's Club will be first in line to give a testimonial. Mrs. Mark Vilim, president, announced yesterday that the clubhouse the island women have waited 10 years to build is within reach.

"The Coronado City Council has offered us a long-term lease for property on the Strand," the pleased club executive said. "It is located between the National Guard Armory and the Coronado Players' Theater.

Miss Steffan

"Details of the lease are being worked out by the city attorney and city manager and club officers. Findings will be presented for general club approval at our meeting at 1:30 p.m. next Wednesday at Christ Episcopal Church parish hall."

Cost of a building, architectural style and other details will not be discussed until the land lease is signed, Mrs. Vilim added.

"We don't want to take any chances of being disappointed," she said. "But you can say we have wonderful plans which will supply a meeting place for everyone in the community. Perhaps we can revive the old aura of Tent City when it was a central meeting place along the Strand."

The Coronado Club, founded in 1947, is one of the most civic-minded in the county. It has a membership of nearly 200.

Following the business meeting next Wednesday, Miss Anne Reher will discuss "Emily Post around the World." Tea will follow, with Mrs. Henry G. S. Wallace, chairman.

Club lease placed on first reading

The Woman's Club lease was placed on first reading at a special meeting of the City Council Friday.

Four councilmen voted for placing the lease for a tidelands site on Silver Strand on first reading. Robin Goodenough abstained until the legality of the lease can be determined.

He said the city may be in error in leasing tidelands property to private or semi-public organizations. To show that his abstaining vote was not personally directed to the Woman's Club, Goodenough paid a year's rent on the requested site in advance.

He gave the city clerk one dollar, a year's rental on the property.

Vote Supports Bay Site for Coronado Club

CORONADO—A lease of a bay front site on Strand Way to the Coronado Women's Club for a club house passed a first reading before the City Council here yesterday.

The vote was 4 to 0, with Councilman Robin Goodenough abstaining. Final adoption is due at the March 4 meeting. About 20 of the club women, including Mrs. Mark Vilim, president, were at the City Hall session.

"We are very grateful for what has been done," Mrs. Vilim said. "We've been virtually homeless for many years, meeting where we could."

The club house would occupy a plot, 248x120 feet, adjacent to the Coronado Players' theater.

Goodenough withheld his vote, questioning the legality of the land lease for other than strictly public purposes.

Coronado OKs Women's Club Tideland Lease

CORONADO — The City Council yesterday approved on first reading a lease change granting the Coronado Women's Club the tidelands property between the National Guard Armory and the Coronado Playhouse on the Silver Strand. The motion was passed 4-0 with Councilman Robin Goodenough abstaining.

The new lease of $1 a year will expire in 40 years, a change from the original 50-year contract. It also makes the club responsible for the expense of possible surveys and requires the construction of a clubhouse be started within one year and completed in 18 months.

Council approves heliport, woman's clubhouse site

A short agenda of routine business was transacted by the City Council Tuesday with its highlight approval of a heliport for helicopter service to San Diego. The plan had the recommendation of the Planning Commission. The site will be on the John Alessio property, south of the Hotel del Coronado. The Civil Aeronautics Authority must also approve.

It will be the first county air taxi service. William Eddy represented the taxi service. Councilman Harrison voted against it.

One bid ($1,810) came in for a fence for the high school baseball diamond; it went to the city manager for checking.

A lease to the Woman's Club for $1 a year was approved. It covers bay front land. The club proposes to erect a clubhouse. Lease is for 40 years. Councilman Goodenough abstained from voting on this.

Woman's Club to have bayfront site

The Coronado Woman's Club has finally decided to accept the 120 by 248 foot tidelands site, given to them virtually free for 40 years by the City Council.

The clubhouse site is located between the National Guard Armory and the Coronado Playhouse on the Silver Strand. The lease approved by the council last week, with Councilman Goodenough abstaining, specifies that the building must be under construction within a year and completed in 18 months. Rent on the land is one-dollar a year. The lease becomes effective in 30 days.

After an 11-year battle for a clubhouse site, and after the council gave them the choice bayfront land with no strings attached except that parking facilities must be available to the public at no cost when not needed by the Woman's Club, the women "voted unaimously to accept," according to the president, Mrs. Mark Vilim.

Said the thrilled Mrs. Muhl, historian; "We are so grateful to the city. We will provide public parking facilities."

To satisfy opponents who say the city should not give away taxpayers' land without consideration, to a private club of 214 women, the lease says it is understood that the lessee "will provide cultural, philanthropic and community activities and in this connection will furnish lectures or exhibits and other activities which will be presented for the benefit of the residents of the City of Coronado and the State of California."

However, the next paragraph of the lease declares that the land and buildings are for the convenience of "conducting said woman's club and club facilities and use of said facilities by individual club members, their guests, friends and invitees."

The Tidelands Act prohibits leasing public lands to private, non-aquatic, organizations.

Last week the Eagles jumped on the Woman's Club bandwagon by putting in their bid for a tidelands clubhouse site. The council referred the request to the Planning Commission.

Meanwhile, the Coronado Boat and Ski Club was told by the council that there is no room for them around Glorietta Bay and they must look elsewhere to establish headquarters for their aquatic activities.

Coronado Woman's Club Soon Will Have a Home

By JACQUELIN MERRILL

"Homeless" for 11 years, Coronado Woman's Club's struggle for a permanent clubhouse is nearing reality.

In a special meeting called yesterday by the president, Mrs. Mark Vilim, members voted unanimously to accept a bayfront site on a 40-year lease from the city of Coronado for $1 a year.

The club was organized in March, 1947, with 40 members, under leadership of Mrs. Merle R. Francis.

"Our club 'home' through the years has been the parish house of Christ Episcopal Church," said Mrs. Elmer Muhl, historian and long-time member.

Membership Was Limited

"Membership has grown to 214 and the club has not been able to enlarge its membership further because of the limited meeting space."

First recorded event to raise funds for a clubhouse was May 14, 1948, Mrs. Muhl said.

"A lot was purchased in the club's fourth year," Mrs. Muhl recalled. "Before we could build, however, the club membership had outgrown the space, and the lot was sold in 1956."

Twice since then, the club has attempted to buy a private residence for its use, but was unable to obtain variance to zoning regulations.

Council Approves Lease

The city council Tuesday approved the second reading of the lease granting the club the tidelands property (248 by 120 feet) between Coronado Playhouse and the National Guard Armory on the Silver Strand.

The lease, which becomes effective in 30 days, requires the construction of a clubhouse be started within one year and completed in 18 months.

Council Set To Act On Clubhouse

CORONADO — The City Council Tuesday will act on a Planning Commission recommendation to allow the Coronado Woman's Club a tidelands lease for construction of a clubhouse.

The commission Monday voted 4-1 to recommend that the council approve leasing to the club the property south of the National Guard Armory on the Silver Strand. Rear Adm. Thomas Jeter, USN, ret., opposed the recommendation.

The council last year refused to rezone a section of A avenue to allow the club to purchse the home of Rear Adm. R. E. Pope, USN, ret., for a clubhouse.

CORONADO CLUB TO HEAR REPORT ON BUILDING PLANS

The announcement that the architect's plans for a new clubhouse on Silver Strand have been released to contractors for bids will be made by Mrs. Mark Vilim, president, at a meeting of the Coronado Woman's Club at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the parish hall of Christ Episcopal Church.

Members will be greeted by Mrs. Frederick W. Pennoyer Jr., hostess chairman, Mrs. W. Keen Harrill and Mrs. William V. Fox. They have been asked by Mrs. Arthur D. Sale, welfare chairman, to bring packaged and canned foods for a Thanksgiving gift to the Door of Hope.

Mrs. Harwood H. Fawcett will introduce the guest speaker, Jeffrey D. Frautschy, assistant director of Scripps Institute of Oceanography, who will describe the work being carried on there for the University of California.

Mrs. John V. Peterson is chairman of the afternoon tea. Presiding at the autumn decorated tables will be Mmes. Dennis J. Sullivan, John G. Foster Jr., William Bailey, and Stephen B. Robinson.

WOMAN'S CLUB—The floor plan of the proposed building shows the garden entrance (arrow) from Strand Way. It features an auditorium to seat 350 persons and a platform that may be used as a stage for speakers or cultural programs. Three doorways give free access to the outside terrace (righ area). The building also includes a fully equipped kitchen for indoor or outdoor serving, caretakers quarters, a board room, office space and storage areas for heating unit, garden supplies and general equipment. The Woman's Club headquarters is to be built within a year on leased city land on Silver Strand. When constructed, at an undisclosed cost, it will end the search of many years for a home for the Woman's Club.

Clubhouse Plans OKd By Coronado City Council

By GAY WATERFIELD

A dream that began in 1946 with the incorporation of the Coronado Woman's Club approached fulfillment yesterday when the Coronado City Council approved the architect's plans for a new clubhouse on Strand way south of Hotel del Coronado.

The clubhouse will be located on a tideland site which was leased to the club for 40 years in May. The building will be of wood and stucco, and will contain an auditorium seating 350.

OVERLOOKING BAY

The garden entrance will be on the ocean side, with landscape windows overlooking Glorietta Bay and the new Coronado Golf course.

The large board room will serve as a meeting place for smaller groups.

Mrs. Mark Vilim, club president, and the Executive Committee for the Coronado Woman's Club Building Committees, has met frequently during recent months to evaluate ideas and suggestions.

EXECUTIVE AIDES

Serving on the Executive Committee are Mmes. Henry G. S. Wallace, finance committee chairman; Elmer Huhl, Harry Perkins, Donald Spicer, sub-chairmen; Albert D. Cooley, building John V. Peterson, and Charles L. Latham, furnishing co-chairmen; John Strong Abbott, maintenance chairman; Almerian bolleau, policy chairman and John W. Vann, secretary.

Building will begin as soon as contractors' bids are received and a contract is let. The Club hopes to celebrate its 12th birthday in March in its own new home.

Coronado Club Gets Council Approval for New Building

Coronado Woman's Club got the green light yesterday to go ahead with its proposed building when the Coronado City Council approved the plans.

The clubhouse will be erected on city-owned property, a tideland site on Strand Way with 245-foot frontage on Glorietta Bay. The club signed a 40-year lease on the land at a nominal annual rental of one dollar.

Plans call for a fireproof building of modern design, wood and stucco, with area of 5,300 square feet. The auditorium, 500-seat capacity, is designed so that it may be divided by doors into two smaller rooms. It will have storage space for chairs under the platform.

Plans for Kitchen

Floors will be terrazo. A well-equipped kitchen will open into the auditorium and onto a patio.

Entrance on the ocean side will be through a garden. Picture windows on the bay side will afford a view of the yacht basin, the new golf course, across to San Diego and the mountains.

A large board room will be available for small groups or parties. Storage space for all club records and properties is included and there will be an apartment for the caretaker.

Architect Named

Architect for the clubhouse is Robert Bradt of Coronado, whose wife is a charter member and former vice president of the club.

Bids will be called for immediately and the club hopes to occupy the building by late spring of 1959.

Chairmen of committees for building include Mrs. Henry G. S. Wallace, finance, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Muhl, Mrs. Harry Perkins, and Mrs. Donald Spicer; Mrs. John V. Peterson and Mrs. C. C. Latham, furnishing; Mrs. Albert Cooley, building; Mrs. John Strong Abbott, maintenance; Mrs. Almerian Boileau, policy.

Acts as Secretary

Mrs. John W. Vann is secretary of the group which formed an executive committee of all building committees.

The club, which was organized in 1946 and has a membership of 212, has been meeting in the parish hall of Christ Episcopal Church. Its nine sections meet in the homes of members. Mrs. Mark Vilim is serving her second term as president.

The building fund was started as soon as the club was founded and his been increased through such projects as garden parties, bazaars, fall sales, theater parties and moonlight boat rides on the bay.

A lot on B Avenue was purchased, but was sold when it proved too small for an adequate building and parking area.

CLUB SITE SAID ILLEGAL; MAYOR MAKES REPAIRS

A hundred and fifty years' worth of Woman's Club rent was appropriated last Wednesday by the City Council to send the Mayor to Sacramento to take care of "some adjustments that must be made" concerning the Woman's Club lease on city tidelands.

The council appropriated $150 to pay the expenses of Mayor Beverley Harrison in Sacramento, where he sought approval of state officials on changes in the lease on the Armory. The Women's Club seeks some of the land now under lease to the State Armory. The Woman's Club would pay the city $1 a year under provisions of the lease.

City Atty. J. R. Goodbody accompanied the mayor to Sacramento.

According to Councilman Lloyd Harmon, the action became necessary after a call from "someone in the County Assessor's office" informed him that the lease was illegal. When the site between the Armory and the Coronado Playhouse was returned to the city by the state in 1955, there were strings attached that prevented the land from being used as a building site, Harmon said. It was to be used only for parking.

Harrison and Goodbody returned from Sacramento Friday reporting that everything is "fixed up" and "things look favorable."

The councilman who has opposed the lease all along, Robin Goodenough, was out of town when the council last week voted to have the mayor make "some adjustments."

Goodenough said he would have opposed the Sacrmento trip on the same two counts he opposed the lease in the beginning:

First, that it is illegal to lease public tidelands, earmarked for public recreation, to a private organization such as Coronado Woman's Club.

Second, that it is illegal for three of the councilmen to vote on the lease because of an indirect interest in the lease. The wives of three of the council members, Harmon, Harrison and Spicer, are members of the Woman's Club. Spicer's wife is on the Woman's Club board of directors.

In the past, on other issues, council members have abstained from voting when there was any indirect interest.

It is reported by members of the club that the women are split between those who want to go ahead and build and those who want to move to another site or wait until the legality of the present lease is determined.

It has been pointed out by some of the women and Goodenough that the club can be ejected if the lease is challenged and found illegal. In that case, the city may be open to a lawsuit to recover financial losses by the club. The Woman's Club has already spent heavily on architect's fees and preliminary plans to develop their clubhouse.

Legality Of Club Lease Questioned

CORONADO — Councilman Robin Goodenough yesterday said he will request a legal opinion from the state attorney general on legality of the Womans Club lease if the council did not vote to ask for an investigation. No action was taken.

Goodenough is questioning a lease granted in March to the Womans Club for tidelands property between the National Guard Armory and the Coronado Playhouse on the Silver Strand.

"Any taxpayer or the state can hold the city liable for misappropriation of state lands given to Coronado for all the people to be used for public recreation," he said.

LEASES ARMORY

"Further, the lease is not valid as it stands. The ordinance as adopted leases part of the state armory to the Womans Club. The armory doesn't belong to us."

Mayor Beverley Harrison and City Atty. J. R. Goodbody went to Sacramento last week to negotiate with state officials for the Womans Club property after being informed by the county assessor's office that the lease was illegal.

The council was informed when the site between the armory and the playhouse was returned to the city by the state in 1955 there were strings attached that prevented the land from being used as a building site and terms were issued that stipulated the property must be used only for parking.

SECRECY SCORED

Goodenough charged that local government would "fall apart" if it were possible to "willy - nilly" change ordinances without putting the proposed changes on the official agenda. No mention was made at any council meeting about the lease being illegal and Goodbody and other city officials had refused to comment when questioned by a San Diego Union reporter.

Goodenough also said the lease jeapordizes the Womans Club because it can be challenged as being invalid, thereby not binding this council or any other.

Another factor that may cause council action to be invalid, Goodenough said, is a "direct" interest on part of three council members.

The wives of Councilmen Lloyd Harmon and Donald Spicer and of Mayor Harrison are members of the Womans Club. Spicer's wife is a club director.

Goodenough said the law states council members must disqualify themselves from voting on issues where they have a direct interest and further states a person cannot hold public office while a contract in which there is an interest is in effect.

Coronado Club Lease Raises Legality Issue

CORONADO — Councilman Robin Goodenough said at yesterday's City Council meeting he will request the state attorney general's opinion on legality of a land lease to the Coronado Woman's Club.

He has opposed the Council's recent approval of a 200-by-60-foot plot facing Glorietta Bay on the Silver Strand for a Woman's Club quarters.

"Any taxpayer, or the state, can hold the city liable for misappropriation of state lands given to Coronado for all the people to be used for public recreation," he said.

Parallel Cases Cited

Councilman Lloyd Harmon said "if the lease to the Woman's Club is illegal, then the lease to the Coronado Playhouse and the Coronado Yacht Club, also on city tidelands, are illegal.

"These organizations, while public, also have membership qualifications. Moreover, the woman's clubhouse would be available to other public groups," Harmon said.

Harmon Defends Wives

Answering charges by Goodenough that the wives of Harmon, Mayor Beverly Harrison, and Councilman Donald Spicer are Woman's Club members, Harmon told the Evening Tribune today:

"Mayor Harrison's wife and mine were not members at the time the lease was approved, and Col. Spicer was not a Council member then. His wife was a member then, however, and still is."

HONEST MOTIVES

The Editor:

This letter is addressed to you in defense of the present Council and the one preceding it.

In the matter of the lease of City land to the Woman's Club, both bodies have acted in good faith and with the improvement of the City in mind, at all times.

In the preceding Council—the one which granted the lease—no Councilman's wife was a member of the Club.

The present Council is neither granting nor denying any lease to anybody. It is properly and honestly, merely negotiating the correction of the wording of a document.

We all make mistakes—even the Journal. We all must act on our information and in the case of the Council, on professional advice. Your newspaper, in the Nov. 13 issue gave an incorrect picture of members of both Councils and their motives.

Sincerely yours,
Coleman M. Gray.

(Ed Note) — We do not take issue with the motives of the council members in this, believing them to be honorable. But we still challenge the legality of leasing public lands to a private organization without the public receiving anything in return, unless you call $1 a year a good return).

LEASE—City Atty. Goodbody Tuesday told the City Council members that in his opinion the Woman's Club lease is a valid contract, but left some doubt as to whether the contract will crumble if challenged.

Councilman Robin Goodenough said he plans to ask the attorney general for an opinion to clear up the doubt before the women build their clubhouse on the portion of bayfront land between the Coronado Playhouse and the National Guard Armory. The city leased the land to the Woman's Club for $1 a year. The parcel is governed by the Tidelands Act of 1923.

Goodenough asked any interested members to join him, but only Mayor B. R. Harrison replied, saying that he is satisfied the lease is in order.

Goodbody said restrictions on tidelands were removed by the legislature in 1953 when Coronado wanted to build City Hall on its present site. Restrictions had limited the land to public recreational use.

In his opinion, Goodbody said the city now has the right to lease the land either within the restrictions or without until such time as a court of appeals decides the opposite.

He conceded that "consideration" in the lease had been bolstered, by desire of the council, by stating in the contract that the club will provide cultural, philanthropic and community activities for the benefit of the residents.

Goodbody told the councilmen that they are all over 21 and must decide for themselves.

CLUB LEASE STILL CENTER OF DISPUTE

The legality of the controversial Woman's Club lease between the Coronado Playhouse and the National Guard Armory remains doubtful after Tuesday's City Council debate, although Mayor B. R. Harrison said, "The City Attorney advised it was proper and I am willing to continue to abide by his advice."

He made that reply after Councilman Robin Goodenough again questioned the validity of the lease, as he has done on several previous occasions.

Goodenough asked the council to check with the Attorney General on five points regarding the lease which the city granted to the Woman's Club in March this year for $1 a year.

He has contended from the beginning that the lease represents a "misappropriation of state lands, given to Coronado in trust for all the people and to be used for public recreation." To this charge he added Tuesday the charge that the lease is doubly invalid because, "The ordinance as adopted leases part of the State Armory to the Woman's Club. The Armory doesn't belong to us."

Last week the mayor and city attorney went to Sacramento to make repairs concerning the Armory land included in the lease.

Goodenough said, "Mere out-of-town visits cannot correct defective ordinances. It must be put back on first reading to become law, as we did with changes made on March 7, 1958. If a person can willy-nilly change ordinances without even putting the proposed change on the official agenda, local government would fall apart."

Harrison said later that no changes were made to the ordinance, and that he had merely reached an agreement with the adjutant general of the National Guard in Sacramento.

It was pointed out by Lloyd Harmon in conference before the meeting that none of the wives of councilmen was a member of the Woman's Club when the lease was being negotiated. Mrs. Harrison had been a member but resigned. She later rejoined the club after the lease was signed. The wives of Harrison, Harmon and Col. Spicer are now members of the club.

"We have faced this issue before and have followed the advice of our attorney," he continued, "that is why we are not members of the yacht club or the Chamber of Commerce." (YC holds a city lease and the chamber is subsidized by the city).

He said the objective of placing this before the council and the public is to attempt to save the public equity and title to lands fronting on Glorietta Bay and to "preserve the good name and integrity of the city, the council and the Woman's Club and to avoid future liability and litigation."

The whole point, he said, is to indicate that some reasonable doubt exists. "I ask that the council investigate this reasonable doubt as to its legality rather than involve themselves and their city in unforseen trouble."

It is Goodenough's contention that councilmen whose wives are members should not remain on the council.

"Last week I checked with a City Attorney from a large neighboring city who stated that the 'courts held the wife to be one and the same person as the husband'," Goodenough said, "Therefore, in his opinion, there is direct interest.

He urged the council to ask the Attorney General five questions:

1. Was the lease a legal document before and after the change? 2. Was it within the legal requirements of the Tidelands Act? 3. Is the present lease, with changes not incorporated in the ordinance, legal? 4. Does there exist any direct or indirect interest that would disqualify any councilman from voting on any phase or subsequent modification of the lease? 5. Can a councilman remain on the council if such an interest is deemed to exist while such a lease is in effect?

There was no sign from the other members that the Attorney General will be queried.

Lands Lease to Women Is Hit by Coronado Official

Councilman Asks State Opinion

Coronado City Councilman Robin Goodenough and City Attorney J. R. Goodbody will review Goodenough's request for a state attorney general's ruling on the legality of the city Woman's Club tidelands lease.

Goodenough said Goodbody had agreed to examine the request for a ruling "to make sure I've got all the details and that I've got facts and not fiction."

The councilman contends the lease is illegal. He threatened to contact the state office this week unless City Council took some action. The council took no action.

Goodenough said the lease gives part of the armory land to the Woman's Club. The armory does not belong to the city.

Goodbody said the issue was "a local matter" and any prediction about action would be "premature."

"Any taxpayer or the state can hold the city liable for misappropriation of state lands given to Coronado for all the people to be used for public recreation," Goodenough claimed.

The site between the armory and the playhouse was returned to the city by the state in 1955. Goodenough said it was stipulated that the property must be used only for parking and not for construction.

The lease jeopardizes the Woman's Club, Goodenough contends, because it is invalid and not binding on the council.

Three councilmembers have a direct interest in the lease, making it invalid, he said.

Councilmembers Lloyd Harmon and Donald Spicer and Mayor Beverly Harrison have wives who are club members. Spicer's wife is a club director.

The law states that councilmen must disqualify themselves from voting on issues in which they have direct interests and that nobody can hold a public office while a contract in which he has an interest is in effect.

The council granted the lease to the Woman's Club for tidelands property between the National Guard Armory and the Coronado Playhouse on the Silver Strand in March.

Attorney advises caution on Woman's Club lease

Coronado Journal
- COMPASS (And The Coronado Citizen) TEN CENTS (Established 1912)
CORONADO, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1958 VOLUME 45—NUMBER 48

City Council Tuesday was given a guarded opinion by City Attorney J. R. Goodbody on the legality of a lease for the Woman's Club on tideland property. The opinion, which was solely on whether any councilman could sign such a lease if he had any interest, direct or remote, was that "it would be prudent to adopt a conservative definition of 'interest'."

The question had been raised because wives of certain councilmen were reportedly members of the Woman's Club.

Goodbody gave several citations of law and judicial findings in his report to the City Council. Among them was:

"Specific intent is not required under Government Code Section 1097. A law forbidding conduct universally deemed inimical to public welfare and prescribing a penalty therefore does not require a specific intent shall be imputed.

"There is no indication that a 'criminal' or 'corrupt' intent is required."

Goodbody added:

"The above applies also to any modification of any contract now in existence. This is a matter of such importance for all officers and members of the City that I urgently request that any questions concerning the interest in public contracts be referred to this office prior to any action being taken."

"In balancing the advantages of contracts between City employes and officers of the City against the severe penalties involved, it would be prudent to adopt a conservative definition of interest. It is not inconceivable that any contract of this nature, upon being scrutinized by the Court, could be considered as being within the prohibited types. This would be true no matter how far down the City hierarchy the employe or officer may be and no matter how remote his interest may be, when it is considered in the light of the policy of the complete protection of the general public. The advantages to be gained by such a contract are not worth the risks involved."

The opinion was given the City Council because of statements made that a councilman whose wife was a member of the club would have an "interest" in the contract, or lease. Generally the law provides penalties for the officer of any governmental ruling body having any interest in a contract he votes for or signs.

Goodbody did not say, directly, that such "interest" was paramount in this case. He did warn that a "prudent" attitude was desirable in this case.

The report cited seven Code sections and several court and other opinions.

Coronado Woman's Club lease declared invalid by Sacramento Legislative Counsel

By TOM HENDERSON

The Coronado Woman's Club lease has been called invalid by the Office of the Legislative Counsel in Sacramento.

In the opinion handed down by the counsel it was stated: "We do not believe that the courts would sustain the ordinance providing for the proposed lease of such lands to a woman's club for private purposes."

The counsel's opinion on the validity of the lease adopted March 18, 1958, was requested by Councilman Robin Goodenough.

He told the City Council Tuesday that he will give them copies of the opinion which was forwarded to Coronado through the office of Assemblyman Jack Schrade.

The council leased the Woman's Club a 120 by 248 foot bayfront clubhouse site between the National Guard Armory and the Playhouse on the Strand. The lease was for 40 years at $1 a year.

Goodenough abstained from voting until a legal opinion could be obtained as to whether the city may lease tidelands to a private, non-aquatic organization.

His stand was upheld by the Legisative Counsel's opinion.

The Legislative Counsel said the ordinance, in granting the lease, contains the following provision:

"It is further understood that the Lessee will provide cultural, philanthropic and community activities and in this connection will furnish lectures or exhibits and other activities which will be presented for the benefit of the residents of the City of Coronado and the State of California."

This does not come within the Tidelands Act of 1923 which states, according to the Legislative Counsel, "That said lands shall be used by said city for the establishment, improvement and conduct of the harbor, for the construction, maintenance and operation thereon of wharves, docks, piers, slips, quays and other utilities, structures and appliances necessary or convenient for the promotion of commerce, navigation and fisheries, for the establishment and maintenance of bathhouses, bathing facilities and boathouses necessary or convenient for the inhabitants of said city and for the construction, maintenance, or operation of residences, or recreational facilities and parks."

"We do not believe," the opinion continues, "that the courts would sustain the ordinance providing for the proposed lease of such lands to a woman's club for private purposes. The city holds the lands in question subject to a public trust for commerce and navigation which inures to the benefit of the entire State. It follows, we believe, that the lands granted to the city (by the Tidelands Act) must be devoted to the fulfillment of such trust.

"It seems clear that the use of the land for a private club could not be considered a public use, regardless of the public activities in which the club participates. While under some circumstances it is possible that public property in the control of a private party may serve a public purpose as an aid to, or a part of a general plan, in our opinion the proposed use of the granted property would not serve any such purpose.

"Still further, in our opinion, a portion of the lands covered by the lease could not be used for the purposes contemplated. The proposed lease, according to the information submitted to us, involves certain lands occupied by the city under a license from the Adjutant General, Military Department, State of California, dated Jan. 10, 1955. Under this license the city is prohibited from constructing 'any structure or any other permanent type item or object.' The proposed lease contemplates the construction of buildings and structures. This would appear clearly to violate the terms of the license."

The lease required that construction of the clubhouse begin within one year and be completed within 18 months after granting the lease.

Plans have been drawn, but actual construction has not started.

Legal Snarl Still Delays Clubhouse

CORONADO — A difference of opinion between the Coronado city attorney and the state Office of the Legislative Counsel yesterday continued to delay start of construction of a proposed new Coronado Woman's Clubhouse.

A step toward ending the delay was taken when the City Council yesterday voted to accept a state license allowing the city use of state tidelands previously under jurisdiction of the California National Guard.

The license was issued by the state adjutant general. It covers land between the state armory and the Coronado Playhouse on the Silver Strand.

Goodbody said that as far as the city is concerned the state action leaves the city in a position to validate an ordinance by which the city council in March 1958, voted to lease a 120 by 240-foot bay front site to the woman's club as a clubhouse site.

BUILDING RESTRICTED

The land, including that in the woman's club lease, had been under state jurisdiction for possible National Guard use since January 1955.

Previously, the city held a license that restricted construction of buildings on the land. The new license excludes the part of the site the city had leased to the woman's club.

Goodbody disagreed with an opinion submitted last week by the Legislative Office in Sacramento declaring the woman's club lease invalid. Goodbody declined to say why he disagreed with the opinion.

The state counsel said:

"The said lands shall be used for the establishment, improvement and conduct of the harbor, for the construction, maintenance and operation thereon of wharves, docks, piers, slips and other utilities, structures necessary for the promotion of commerce, navigation and fisheries.

TERMED UNAVAILABLE

"We do not believe that the courts would sustain the ordinance providing for the proposed lease of such lands to a woman's club for private purposes."

Councilman Donald Spicer said he believed the woman's club lease valid because of Senate Bill 1460, passed in June 1953, deeming the tidelands in question unavailable for navigation, commerce or fisheries and allowed for the construction of permanent buildings.

A spokesman for the Coronado Woman's Club said the organization still had not decided whether to start actual construction of their clubhouse on the site although plans have been drawn.

Club lease left hanging

The City Council heard the City Clerk read the opinion of the Legislative Counsel in Sacramento (Journal, Feb. 19) which declared the Woman's Club tidelands lease invalid.

Then the clerk read a letter from Lt. Col. Charles Columbia of the Adjutant General's office of the Military Department of the state in which it was revealed that the city can reacquire part of the armory land included in the Woman's Club lease.

City Atty. Goodbody said, "This places the city in a position to go ahead with the lease." He said he does not agree with the opinion of the legislative council that the ordinance granting the lease is invalid.

When asked by Robin Goodenough if the change of license (offered in the letter from Lt. Col. Columbia) would make the lease valid, Goodbody said he can't say yes or no. He said he cannot advise the other party in the lease (Woman's Club). But it appeared that he would advise the council that the lease is legal.

Many of the women in the audience who are members of the club seemed to have little hope that the clubhouse will be constructed on tidelands between the armory and the Coronado Playhouse.

The city granted the lease March 18, 1958. Goodenough questioned the legality of the lease because he felt it violated the Tidelands Act by which the city acquired the land. He abstained when the lease was voted upon.

Later it was discovered that part of the land in the lease had already been leased to the state military department as part of the National Guard Armory, April 26, 1949.

Mayor Harrison and Goodbody went to Sacramento and reached a satisfactory agreement with the Adjutant General by which the Woman's Club could use the land.

In the meantime, Goodenough queried the Legislative Counsel through the office of Assemblyman Jack Schrade. The counsel returned the opinion Feb. 9 this year that the lease is invalid because the club is private and of a nature not within the Tidelands Act.

Tuesday the council accepted the new license from the Adjutant General to reacquire the land.

Goodenough insisted that the new license only corrects one of the defects in the lease. The other is violation of the Tidelands Act.

Goodbody, who said he has studied the act and the case thoroughly, has from the beginning taken the opposite view and apparently still does.

The dilemma is still a dilemma.

Clubhouse To Be Built In Coronado

Coronado Woman's Club has accepted the contractor's bid for its new clubhouse and will hold groundbreaking ceremonies April 17 at 10 a.m. on the building site on the strand.

At a special meeting yesterday in Christ Episcopal Church parish house, members voted to accept the bid for a clubhouse costing more than $70,000. Robert Bradt, Coronado, is the architect.

Pledges Already Made

The clubhouse, to be underwritten by members, will be constructed on a view site leased to the club last May by the city.

The building will be of concrete and plaster construction and will include an auditorium seating 350, a complete kitchen, powder room, and caretaker's quarters.

Two members already have pledged $1,000 each toward construction of the clubhouse, according to Mrs. Frank E. Deam, club press chairman.

Committee Is Named

The building committee, appointed by Mrs. Mark Vilim, president, includes Mrs. Henry G. S. Wallace, finance; Mrs. Albert D. Cooley, building; Mrs. Charles L. Latham, furnishing; Mrs. John Strong Abbott, maintenance; Mrs. Almerian Boileau, policy; Mrs. John W. Vann, secretary.

The 12 - year - old club of about 217 members has been using the Christ Episcopal Church parish house as its regular meeting place.

Coronado Clubhouse Start Set

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Coronado Woman's Club's new clubhouse will be held at 10 a.m. April 17 at the site on Silver Strand previously leased to the group by the city.

The decision to build the clubhouse, which will cost an estimated $70,000, was made at a special meeting in the parish hall of Christ Episcopal Church yesterday.

The concrete and stucco building, which will give a view of the Coronado golf course, Glorietta Bay, and the hills behind San Diego, will contain an auditorium seating 350. A large stage will contain storage space for chairs and tables.

Members of the club voted to underwrite the project themselves. The building also will contain board rooms, restrooms, a completely equipped kitchen, and caretaker's quarters.

Building committee members include Mmes. John Strong Abbott, Henry G. S. Wallace, Albert D. Cooley, A. R. Boileau and John W. Vann. Mrs. Mark Vilim is club president.

Woman's Club groundbreaking ceremony tomorrow morning

Members of the Coronado Woman's Club, their friends and city officials are cordially invited to attend ground-breaking ceremonies at 10 o'clock on Friday morning, April 17, at the site of the future club house on the Strand. According to the building committee it is hoped that all interested Coronadans will consider this a personal invitation.

The Rev. Dr. W. Don Brown will open the ceremonies with a prayer. Mrs. J. W. Vann will lead the members and guests in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Mrs. Mark Vilim, club president, will introduce her board members of last year and this year and the building committee members who have served two years. She will also introduce Coleman Gray, mayor of Coronado when the lease was signed and Mayor Beverley Harrison who will make a brief address.

After presenting Robert Bradt, the architect for the building, and C. L. Wurster of Wurster Construction Co., the builders, Mrs Vilim will turn the first spadeful of earth, marking the start of a project for which the club has worked for 12 years.

The decision to accept the bid of the Wurster Co. was made at a special meeting held on Wednesday, April 8. The members also decided to underwrite the project themselves. The concrete and plaster building with modern heating and ventilation and accoustical ceiling will seat 350. Under the large platform-type stage will be storage space for tables and chairs making the auditorium suitable for parties and dances. Picture windows and glass doors on the bay side give a view across the patio of Glorietta Bay and the mountains of San Diego County. The completely equipped kitchen is so placed that refreshments may be served either indoors or on the patio. A board room, powder rooms and caretaker's quarters are also included in the plans. The approximate cost is $70,000.

Members of the building committee are Mmes. Henry G. S. Wallace, finance; Albert D. Cooley, building; Charles C. Latham, furnishings; John Strong Abbot, maintenance; Almerian Boileau, policy; Elmer Muhl, pledges; John W. Vann, secretary.

Club Holds Ceremony

Coronado Woman's Club members expect to be in their new bay-view clubhouse when the 1959-60 season opens this September.

At groundbreaking ceremonies yesterday morning on the strand site leased from the city, Mrs. Mark Vilim, president, announced that 150 days had been set for completion of the building.

Smart in a grey suit-dress with green orchid corsage, Mrs. Vilim used a gold spade tied with green ribbon. Green and gold are the colors of the 12-year-old club.

Special guest was Mrs. Merle Francis, now of Del Mar, charter president of the club.

Construction on the clubhouse, which will cost more than $70,000, will begin Monday, according to the contractor, C. L. Wurster. Robert Bradt is the architect.—M. R.

Woman's Club holds ground-breaking ceremonies

City officials and Coronado business and civic leaders joined members of Coronado Woman's Club Friday to watch Mrs. Mark Vilim, club president, turn the first spadefull of earth at the site of the future woman's clubhouse on the Strand.

In the crowd of 200 were Rear Adm. Beverley Harrison, mayor of Coronado and three former mayors, Capt. Henry G. S. Wallace, Cdr. Lloyd Harmon and Coleman Gray, mayor when the lease was signed.

The Rev. Dr. W. Don Brown of Christ Episcopal Church opened the ceremony with prayer. Mrs. Vilim introduced members of her boards of the past two years and the members of the building committee, all of whom have served two years. Also introduced was Mrs. Merle Francis, founding president of the club. Gray thanked the club for "its many civic and philanthropic contributions to the city."

Mayor Harrison congratulated the club on having as president Mrs. Vilim, "whose tireless efforts have made the clubhouse a reality."

C. L. Wurster, of Wurster Construction Co., which will build the clubhouse, presented Mrs. Vilim with a golden shovel. Robert Bradt, the architect, watched with interest as Mrs. Vilim dug her spade into the ground.

The building should be ready for use in the fall. It is scheduled for completion in five months.

Urge long look at tidelands

News that two important branches of the government of the State of California have said that the lease to the Woman's Club of tidelands property in Coronado breaches the state law is important—and serious—from several angles. If carried out, it seems sure now, the action could jeopardize other uses Coronado has made of tidelands property, and might even cause the State of California to take some drastic action.

The language of the State Code, as recited by F. J. Hortig, executive officer of the State Lands Commission, seems clear enough. It says: "All jurisdiction and authority remaining in the state as to tidelands and submerged lands AS TO WHICH GRANTS MAY BE MADE (capitals ours) is vested in the State Lands Commission."

The State Lands Commission also said (all this under date of April 27) "it appears the lease (to the Woman's Club), if executed, would violate the trust and restrictions applicable to Coronado as a municipal grantee of the tidelands" under state law. The commission goes on: "Additionally, the lease could constitute a gift of public property to a private organization, in violation of Article 4, Section 31, of the State Constitution."

The other state department (apart from the Lands Commission) agreeing with this is the Office of the State Attorney General, who is the last word in the state, barring the courts, on interpretation, in all matters of state law and policy.

The State Lands Commission said in its letter of April 27 to the City Council "This division is not concerned with the purpose of the lease" and neither are we, but we are concerned with what effect on the whole question of tidelands this action, if carried out, will have on the future of many phases of Coronado life.

It should be remembered Coronado has vast tidelands rights, rights vested in it by the state, and, as seems certain from the Attorney General's Office opinion and that of the State Lands Commission, rights that may be subjected to review. We all can remember what happened in Long Beach, when the state moved in on tidelands leased by that city to private interests.

Coronado has more tidelands than any other city in the San Diego Bay complex. They extend all around us, and down to the territory of Imperial Beach, way south of us. They represent a most important property and interest, and one that will be ever more important as the years go by and the San Diego Bay area developes to its fullest. These rights should not be placed in jeopardy. And it seems they may well be under this lease.

All this, it goes without saying, is no reflection on the Woman's Club as an entity or its members individually. It seems only necessary to say this for the record. It would be just as true if the lease had been made to the Rotary Club, or any other private organization for the same purpose. The rights vested in Coronado by the state to these tidelands is limited to certain uses, and it appears from the Attorney General's opinion and that of the Lands Commission such a lease as is now under question is not a part of those rights.

We would suggest to the City Council that it give a long, hard look at the matter, with an eye to all the tidelands property of Coronado and its future benefits to the city.

The lease granting the Coronado Woman's Club a tidelands site for their clubhouse came under attack again this week when the State Lands Commission said the lease could be in violation of the State Constitution. The commission quoted the Attorney General's office as the authority for its ruling.

The hotly disputed site between City Hall and the National Guard Armory on Glorietta Bay, a piece of public tidelands property on which the Coronado Woman's Club turned the first spadeful of dirt for the clubhouse April 17, cannot be given to a private organization, according to a ruling from the commission to the City Council.

The opinion from the lands commission was requested by Councilman Robin Goodenough, who did not vote with the council when the lease was adopted March 18, 1958.

He subsequently requested an opinion from the Sacramento Legislative Counsel. The counsel in February replied: "We do not believe that the courts would sustain the ordinance providing for the proposed lease of such lands to a woman's club for private purposes."

City Atty. J. R. Goodbody, who said he had carefully reviewed the laws and similar court cases, later gave an opinion that the lease is valid, in spite of the Legislative Counsel's decision.

Again, Tuesday, after being informed of the ruling from the Lands Commission, Goodbody said, "I've seen no opinion yet which would make me change my stand."

Mayor B. R. Harrison also reaffirmed his stand and said he honestly believes the lease is valid. "The person who wrote the opinion," he added, "has never consulted our attorney on the basis on which the lease was granted. The opinion is based solely on the information supplied by one councilman."

The mayor said he doubts the seriousness of the councilman (Goodenough) who, he said, apparently did not supply adequate information to the Lands Commission. "Why one councilman is so persistent in the matter when the other four believe the lease is valid, I don't know," he continued, "unless there is some personal animosity there."

Harrison said he is afraid that if the lease is ultimately found illegal it will invalidate the leases of the Playhouse, Yacht Club and almost all other city leases.

The Woman's Club, claiming unanimous approval of its membership, held ground breaking ceremonies two weeks ago and announced plans to complete the building within five months.

Mayor B. R. Harrison, at the ceremony, congratulated the women on their perseverance. They have been seeking a club house site for 12 years.

By yesterday morning, workmen had finished concrete forms and were ready to pour the foundation of the clubhouse.

Commenting on the letter from the commission, Goodenough said, "They're right. You just can't give public land away to friends and cronies."

Rent on the 210 by 248 foot bayside parcel is $1 a year for 40 years, according to the ordinance granting the lease.

(SEE HIGH TIDE FOR EDITORIAL COMMENT).

Following is the letter from State Lands Commission, State Lands Division, Department of Finance, State of California, dated April 27 and signed by F. J. Hortig, executive officer. Chairman of the commission is Bert W. Levitt, with State Controller Alan Cranston and Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson members.

City Council
City of Coronado
Gentlemen:

This Division has been informed by the Office of the Attorney General that, pursuant to a requested review of the legality of a lease of a parcel of State-granted tidelands to the Coronado Woman's Club, it appears that the lease, if executed, would violate the trust and restrictions applicable to Coronado as a municipal grantee of the tidelands under Chapter 49, Statutes of 1923, as amended (Tidelands Act). The terms of the lease are set forth in your Ordinance No. 981, adopted March 18, 1958. Additionally, the lease could constitute a gift of public property to a private organization, in violation of Article 4, Section 31, of the State Constitution.

This Division is not concerned with the purposes of the lease, which is, of course, a purely local matter under your jurisdiction. However, Section 6301 of the Public Resources Code, Statutes of California, provides in part ". . . All jurisdiction and authority remaining in the state as to tidelands and submerged lands as to which grants have been or may be made is vested in the (State Lands) Commission . . ." In view of this jurisdiction, it is felt essential that you be informed fully as to the trust provisions of the tidelands grant to the City of Coronado.

New kink tossed into lease dispute; state does retake

By TOM HENDERSON

A new kink was thrown into the Woman's Club lease dispute Tuesday when City Atty. J. R. Goodbody suggested that the Attorney General's office and the State Lands Commission might back down from their ruling on the invalidity of the lease.

Goodbody said he had received a letter that resulted "from discussion between these two agencies" in which they said they had "not sufficient information" when they made their rulings.

The letter came, he said, after he had called both agencies by telephone. Both state offices had previously ruled that the Woman's Club lease violates the provisions of the Tidelands Act and is invalid.

The letter did not change the ruling, however. The attorney indicated that they might change their minds after receiving all the information.

The information they lacked, Goodbody told the City Council, is that the bayfront land from Hotel del Coronado Boathouse to the Youth Camp had been "removed from usual tidelands purposes."

He reiterated his position that the club lease is valid.

Councilman Robin Goodenough, who has fought the lease from the start, against the other four councilmen, was not present at the meeting. He is attending the Naval War College in Newport, R. I.

Goodbody later explained what he meant by "removed from usual tidelands purposes." He said that the council in 1953, pushed a bill through the State Legislature to remove that strip of lands from the uses and trusts of the tidelands grant. Purpose of the bill was to allow construction of a police station near City Hall on the Strand.

Although the police station was never built (a bond election failed), the act made the existing City Hall legal, a building that had been constructed in opposition to the Tidelands Act.

The attorney claims that the act of 1953 still covers the site given to the Woman's Club, a 27,280 square foot parcel between the National Guard Armory and the Coronado Playhouse.

He said the act also takes in the Little League ball park at Second street and B avenue and is the same sort of legislation that permitted the building of a Civic Center in San Diego.

The Woman's Club, a private organization, will pay, according to the lease, one dollar a year for 40 years. Construction of their new clubhouse started two weeks ago.

Compared with all other city leases, the Woman's Club lease is a gift from the city.

All but three other leases are for five-year periods with 90-day revocation clauses. Each five years the leases are renegotiated and rent increased one cent per square foot.

Present lessees pay from two cents to seven cents a square foot. Councilman Walter Vestal, for example, pays seven cents for 4,181 square feet he leases from the city. His rent is $292.67 a year.

Southwest Iron and Steel Co. pays .045 a foot, plus $50 a year for demised water area. That lease expires next year.

The ferry company pays $500 a month for five years.

The other exception, the boathouse, pays $40 per month. That lease expires in 1966.

Asked by the reporter how the Woman's Club gift avoids the constitutional block that says you can't give away public lands, Goodbody pointed out the lease clause that says the Woman's Club ". . . will provide cultural, philanthropic and community activities and in this connection will furnish lectures or exhibits and other activities which will be presented for the benefit of the residents of the City of Coronado and the State of California."

The women also say they will let the public use their parking area when they don't need it.

Land Ruling Challenged By Coronado

CORONADO—City Atty. J. R. Goodbody yesterday told the City Council the state Lands Commission had overlooked an amendment to state laws governing tidelands when issuing a ruling that a lease, voted by the council, was invalid.

Goodbody said he has written F. J. Hortig, executive officer of the Lands Commission, calling his attention to a 1953 amendment to the statute of 1923 governing tidelands. Goodbody said the amendment withdrew the restrictions on the section of land surrounding Glorietta Bay and gave it to the City of Coronado.

This, according to Goodbody, would legalize the lease to Coronado Women's Club of a portion of land on the Silver Strand next to the National Guard Armory.

Councilman Robin Goodenough, who requested an investigation of the lease from the state attorney general, was absent from yesterday's meeting.

He is in Newport, R.I., attending the Naval War College. Goodenough was the only councilman to oppose the leasing of the tidelands area to the women's club.

High Tide

Fantastic addition to the unusual story of Woman's Club lease and construction on Strand: The club went ahead and built anyhow, it now turns out, even after the club's attorney—Hubert L. Rose—advised against it, saying no title company would give them title insurance to the property, and that the club may lose the building some day.

Letters to the Editor

AN OUTRAGE

Dear G. K.:

The club women of Coronado insisting that tide-land property be used for their clubhouse is an outrage. What is not understandable, is that they know the property belongs to the people for recreational purposes, and yet in defiance went right ahead and started building.

A group of this type of women is supposed to be for the best interest of the community of Coronado, and this certainly does not signify this.

The City of Coronado should take steps to buy this building for a community gathering place for the good of all the citizens of this community, to be used for meetings, dances, etc.

A great big "hurrah!" for Mr. Goodenough for his brave stand in this matter, against all these determined women, who no doubt will skip his name on the ballot should he run for election again. I'm certain time will prove him correct in his stand against this project.

As far as our City Attorney (Goodbody) is concerned—well, I just don't understand how he would go against all of California, and the people of this community, just to satisfy a few women. Time will tell in his actions on this too. He has always been greatly admired, but not so much now.

Please ask these women to please not block off the nice little dirt road that rims the bay, as lots of people like to stroll along this and watch the sailing craft.

Yours greatly concerned,
MDG.

PRETTY SAD STATE

8 May 1959

Dear editor:

Congratulations—the press has scored again. The factual information your current (May 7) issue offers your readers is the result of much hard work and I want to be among the first to express my gratitude. This does not mean that I am happy with what I have read. On the contrary, the information you reveal reflects a pretty sad state of affairs here in Coronado.

On the subject of leases and Tidelands, it is indeed news to me that certain lands have been removed from "usual tidelands purposes." I do not know on what authority the City Council could have requested this since the voters didn't want a police station there. The failure of the bond issue proved this. But now it is no longer just a question of the Woman's Club lease, but rather all other leases, and usage of tidelands in general which are being brought into focus for scrutiny, plus the doubtful propriety of a member of the City Council being one of the lessees. One now understands why the City Attorney believes the Attorney General's office and the State Lands Commission do not have sufficient information. I am sure that he will consider it his duty to provide these people with all information pertaining to lands held in trust by Coronado, including the Report made in 1957. Some fancy mental gymnastics will be required to convince anyone that land withdrawn from Tidelands purposes to accommodate a Police Station can later be used to accommodate a Woman's Club.

Keep up the good work.
Sincerely,
H. F. Tompson,
124 H Avenue.

Woman's Club split widened

The schism in the ranks of the Coronado Woman's Club was widened last week with the reading of a letter from the club's attorney, Hubert L. Rose, to the president, Mrs. Mark Vilim.

Although the meeting was closed and the women are keeping silent about what went on, it was reported that the letter was ammunition for the members who oppose building a clubhouse on the disputed bayside lot between the Coronado Playhouse and the Armory.

Validity of the lease granting the Woman's Club the use of the parcel, at $1 a year for 40 years, has been challenged by two state agencies and City Councilman Robin Goodenough. Nothing further has been heard from the Attorney General's office and the State Lands Commission, both of whom called the lease invalid, since City Atty. J. R. Goodbody said he told them the land was freed from tidelands usage by a bill passed by the legislature in 1953.

Gist of the letter, Rose, said was that "I advised the Woman's Club not to build without a suitable policy of title insurance or a decree of Court confirming their lease."

He added that "They proceeded in construction without securing such a policy or decree."

Work on the clubhouse began three weeks ago.

The letter from Rose was "sent to committee." That is all that the women report of their meeting on the building.

Rose added that "this thing is taking on state and federal proportions."

Coronado Sets

CORONADO—A trip to Sacramento to discuss tidelands leases was authorized yesterday for Coronado officials by the City Council.

Funds were appropriated to send city Atty. J. R. Goodbody and possibly Mayor Beverly Harrison to the state capital.

The trip was authorized after a letter was received from state Atty. Gen Stanley Mosk requesting information on a lease of tidelands property to the Coronado Women's Club.

Tidelands Talk

Councilman Robin Goodenough said he had requested a state investigation of tidelands leases to the women's club, the Coronado Yacht Club, and the Coronado Players.

Goodenough said he wants the state to make clear present tidelands restrictions. He said he will vote to postpone negotiations with a Venice firm that seeks to build a 35-million-dollar apartment development on tidelands at the Coronado housing site until restrictions are clear.

Coronado Tideland Lease Questioned

CORONADO — The City Council yesterday agreed to appropriate funds to send City Atty. J. R. Goodbody and possibly Mayor Beverly Harrison to Sacramento.

The purpose of their trip will be to investigate a letter received from Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk concerning a lease of tidelands property to the Coronado Women's Club as well as a request by Councilman Robin Goodenough for investigation of city tidelands leases.

Goodenough has requested a state investigation of leases to the Coronado Players and Coronado Yacht Club as well as the city's lease with the Women's Club for tidelands property adjoining the National Guard armory on the Silver Strand.

Goodenough said unless the state makes clear tidelands restrictions, he will vote to postpone further negotiations with the Phillip Yousem Co. of Venice, which wants to build a 35 million-dollar luxury apartment development on tidelands property on the site of the Coronado housing project.

Goodenough said he met in Los Angeles Monday with F. J. Hortig, executive officer of the state Lands Commission, to request additional investigations and to discuss the attorney general's opinion that the Women's Club lease was invalid. He told Goodbody he had personally delivered his request to Mosk two months ago when Mosk was visiting San Diego.

Councilman Lloyd Harmon said Goodbody should request the state to give special consideration to Coronado on tidelands restrictions because 20 per cent of all city property comes under this title and should be available for general use.

The letter, addressed to Goodbody, requested his legal position on the lease transaction to the Women's Club. It also requested further explanation of locations of the area involved and a certified copy of the Women's Club lease.

Lease probed by state

In a semi-clandestine meeting Tuesday, the City Council agreed to send the Mayor and City Attorney to Sacramento to answer some pointed queries from the Attorney General.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk's queries, concerning the Coronado Woman's Club lease, were in a letter to City Atty. John R. Goodbody, dated May 19.

Put on the spot, Mayor B. R. Harrison and Goodbody said the council should assume that the state is preparing action against the council and act to defend its position.

The dispute is over the tidelands lot between the Armory and Playhouse on the Strand that the city leased to the Woman's Club at $1 a year for 40 years.

Both the Legislative Counsel and Land Commission have called the lease illegal and an improper use of tidelands.

However, the City Attorney and council have said that is only the opinion of the two state offices and the lease is still valid. The Woman's Club began building their $70,000 clubhouse last month.

The letter to Goodbody said, in part:

"When you telephoned the writer on April 28 you undertook to furnish this office a letter outlining your legal position relative to the lease transaction. As a portion of such a statement, it would be helpful to have your views on two particular aspects of the matter: First, the effect, if any, of restrictions embodied in the Adjutant General's permit, which restrictions were considered in the Legislative Counsel's opinion of February 9, 1959; second, the present status and effect of Chapter 1839, Statutes of 1953, if in fact the City of Coronado does not propose to use the affected lands for the purposes described in the urgency clause of the statute."

The Adjutant General's permit allowed the city to lease to the women a portion of land already under lease to the Armory.

The 1953 urgency clause was a legislative measure taking 11 acres of land out of tidelands usage, part of which is the Woman's Club site previously planned for a police station.

Councilman Robin Goodenough, the single opponent of the lease, met in Los Angeles Monday with Frank J. Hortig, executive officer of the State Lands Commission. Foster Bryant of Coronado was at the meeting also.

Goodenough said Hortig told him that the state had received no information from Goodbody to make it change the opinion that the lease is illegal.

Coronado's method in granting leases is apparently backward, Goodenough said Hortig told him. Other cities handling tidelands ask for information and advice from the state before signing leases. But, he said, Coronado signs the lease first and tries to defend it later.

Goodenough told the council Tuesday that he is of the opinion that the Yousem lease (Coronado Towers) should be submitted to the Attorney General before it is signed to make sure it will hold up.

He added that new legislation is being written because of the way cities have been handling tidelands. In the future, he said, all leases will have to incorporate these new provisions.

If the city submits the Yousem lease for advice, it will probably be approved with up-to-date provisions, Goodenough said.

This recommendation met cold response from the council.

Goodenough, who said he is 100 per cent for the Towers, said if the city will not proceed in the manner suggested by Hortig, he will move to cease all further negotiations with the Towers interests.

He said the city might be able to pay the Woman's Club back $70,000 if they sue, but not $35 million to Yousem if his investment in the Towers fails because of the city's neglect to give him a valid lease.

Mayor Harrison charged Goodenough with causing all the trouble in the first place by not keeping quiet.

Goodenough said it was the Mayor's "bullheadedness" that got them into this jam, and he advised the Mayor to "quit running the council like he ran the quarterdeck."

Lease letter reply revealed

City Atty. John R. Goodbody told the City Council Tuesday that he has replied to a letter from the State Attorney General's office concerning the Woman's Club lease.

The council appropriated $500 for a trip to Sacramento by the City Attorney and councilmen, but Goodbody recommended that the trip be held until he hears again from the Attorney General. He said, if necessary, he will try to set up a meeting in Los Angeles, with all the council present, at the State Lands Commission office.

The Woman's Club lease, a portion of tidelands between the Armory and the Playhouse on the Strand ($1 a year for 40 years), has been contested as improper use of tidelands by Councilman Robin Goodenough.

Both the Attorney General and Lands Commission have agreed with Goodenough, by letter to the council.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Leonard M. Friedman on May 19 asked Goodbody, by letter, for a letter outlining his legal position relative to the lease transaction.

Goodbody replied in two lengthy letters, dated May 28.

He stated his position relative to the original Tidelands Act, legislative statutes of 1953 and the Adjutant General's license of 1955 and Adjutant General's permit of 1959. He also cited three court decisions in reaching a conclusion that the lease is valid.

Goodbody made several other pertinent points in his reply, not requested by Friedman's letter.

Goodbody said, "It occurs to me that it would be advisable to take all of our tidelands leases into consideration at this time."

"I would like you to consider the advisability of informing me of your opinion as to the legal questions which are raised by our correspondence. I am certain that the city does not wish to oppose the state so far as the use of lands is concerned," Goodbody said.

In a supplemental letter he said, "The city is residential in character and has no industry, shipping or other commercial activities. If necessary, facts can be developed which will indicate that the immediate and future needs for tidelands for commerce, navigation and fisheries can be satisfied without the lands which were the subject of the (Tidelands) act."

He also asked that he be informed if the state contemplates action against the city.

"If my position, in your mind is correct," Goodbody added, "I believe the problem to be local in nature and that your office need not proceed. The problem is capable of solution locally."

"In any event," he concluded, "I would appreciate being informed of the wishes of the Lands Commission or any other state agency interested in the problem, to the end that any problems may be settled as soon as possible."

SUMMER GREETINGS from your president. While some of us enjoy a leisurely summer, many of our officers and members are involved keeping the club business going. Their efforts are greatly appreciated. Our summer rental for the Y Teen Dances has proven most profitable to all concerned. This lively group deserves our support and we wish them continued success. The group is well behaved and appreciative of the use of the clubhouse. Rest up and save some energy for the year ahead. We hope to make it a bigger and better one. With the enthusiastic help of ALL, our plans can be realized. See you in the fall!

CORONADO WOMAN'S CLUBHOUSE AS IT IS TODAY
In March, 1958, it was only an idea, nourished by many members.

Women proud of clubhouse

Mrs. E. Lynn Hawins, president of the Coronado Woman's Club. said "There have been many accomplishments since March, 1958."

Mrs. Hawkins was referring to the very start of the movement to build a clubhouse by the women of the club. She went on to say "We were told it couldn't be done."

"This month the clubhouse on the Strand has been in use six years and we have completed some redecorating. If all goes well, we should have our building paid for in another four years.

"It may be of interest that the funds to build were lent by our very own members. We are paying them off right on schedule.

"Our building is now thought of by many as a community service. We pay our taxes which amount to over $1500 a year. We rent to organizations and individuals at a nominal fee which covers the expenses incurred in maintaining the property throughout the year.

"One of the organizations rented to last year was the Y-Teens

Women proud of clubhouse

for their dances held throughout this past summer.

"And by the way," said Mrs. Hawkins, "we are very happy about our contract with the Y-Teens. This project was spearheaded by one of our own members, Mrs. John Lear.

"Renting the clubhouse is like running a regular business and is conducted as one by our rental chairman Mrs. Robert W. Faulkner.

"Along the 'do-it-yourself' tract our house and grounds committee do some of the gardening and they oversee the maintenance of the building.

"To properly finance our club we need additional funds. There again our members 'do-it-yourself' with various fund raising projects.

"This year and next we will continue our card parties which are open to the public on the third Wednesday of every month. We will have our annual Christmas home tour on December 15 which also includes a tea and bazaar.

"In January we plan a gigantic rummage sale. We are already working on all of these projects.

"This 1965-66 club year we, along with our Junior Woman's Club, will continue to support various local and state philanthropies.

"Although the Coronado club was started in March of 1947, this year marks the 75th year for the National Federated Woman's Clubs in the U.S.," concluded Mrs. Hawkins.

GREETINGS TO ALL and best wishes for a wonderful year ahead. A Woman's Club is many things to many people. To some it is the opportunity to meet new people, pursue old interests and develop new ones. To some it may be a chance to contribute time and effort for philanthropies and community services. To others it may be simply meeting to hear interesting speakers and enjoy a social hour with friends. Whatever your attitude may be, each member has something personal to contribute. Please serve when asked to help. You will be glad when you do.

Your board and committees have worked long hours and days this summer setting up the fourthcoming year. Help make it the best one yet.
